

REVISED ELECTRONICS POLICY 2014

We're changing our electronics policy this summer.

These days, technology is all around us. In school, students are using iPads and laptops, and are learning from Smart Boards. At home and on the road, we're glued to our iPod touches and smartphones. These and other devices have greatly enhanced our lives, and have allowed us to connect to the world and the people we love with more ease and convenience than ever before.

However, we also know and recognize the downsides that come with gadgets and technology. In our drive to stay connected online, we are focusing less attention where it matters most: on the people right in front of us.

Much of the feedback we have heard is in line with our belief that camp is the perfect opportunity for us to take a break from our iDevices. This way, we can really focus on building and strengthening our relationships with bunkmates and the wider camp family.

Starting this summer, campers are no longer permitted the following devices at camp: handheld gaming consoles, iPads/tablets, and iPod Touches. As always, cell phones or other network-powered communication devices are strictly forbidden.

We recognize and appreciate the importance of music. As such, classic iPods and small-screen MP3 players are permitted. To encourage social interaction, we suggest speakers instead of headphones.

THANK YOU FOR YOUR COOPERATION!
